COURSE DESCRIPTION

Join this exclusive and intensive 2.5-day program designed to enhance your skills in creating direct composite veneers through a simplified approach. This simplified approach is enriched by two advanced techniques that help achieve highly natural esthetic outcomes: the stratification layering technique and the use of pigments for characterization. These techniques will be applied in a clinical case involving the upper incisors, including one discolored tooth and one peg-shaped lateral incisor.

The case will follow both the stratification and pigmentation techniques developed by Felipe Bezerra. Through these techniques, you will learn how to mask severe discoloration using carefully placed composite and pigment layers.

These layered restorations will then be refined through surface morphology and polishing procedures that reproduce developmental grooves, lobes, surface texture, and final gloss, resulting in highly natural-looking veneers.

Take your practice to the next level and master composite resins like never before!

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

- Simplified direct composite veneer techniques using advanced Stratification layering concepts
- Advanced pigmentation and characterization techniques for lifelike enamel appearance
- Development of natural dentin, translucency, halo, and cervical chromatic effects
- Masking discolored teeth with composite and pigment layering
- Direct veneer restoration of a peg-shaped lateral incisor
- Creation of counter-mamelons, surface texture, developmental grooves, and natural gloss
- Finishing and polishing protocols for highly esthetic anterior restorations
